ENGLAND WOULD ARM INDIA AGAINST RUSSIA'S ADVANCE

Lord Kitchener Seems to Regard as Inevitable a Great Struggle With the Czar for Possession of the Southern Asiatic Empire—In Blue Book He Warns Britain That Desert Is No Longer an Impenetrable Barrier—Views of Lord Curzon Are Overridden by Home Government in Favor of Those More Experienced Warrior.

JAPAN'S SUCCESSES ARE CITED AS AN EXAMPLE OF DANGER.

London, June 22.—General Lord Kitchener, Commander-in-Chief of the British forces in India, seems to regard as inevitable a great struggle with Russia for the possession of India, and to believe that the existing arrangements for the defense of the Indian Empire are altogether obsolete and ineffective.

These views form the striking and central point of interest in a blue book issued to-night dealing with the recent conflict of opinion between Viceroy Curzon, the Indian Council and Lord Kitchener which the Government has just settled by a compromise giving the latter extended powers in the direction he desired.

Lord Kitchener, in an important minute addressed to the home Government, speaks in the plainest possible terms in denouncing the faulty system prevailing in India, which, he points out, has not changed since the time of the mutiny, and which was framed to meet peace requirements instead of the possibility of a great war.

He describes the situation as one entailing endless discussion and delay, as well as great expenditure, with poor results.

In a pregnant paragraph Lord Kitchener says:

"Slowly but surely the deserts of Central Asia, once believed to be an impenetrable barrier, have been crossed by a great European Power. They are now spanned by railways, which have only one possible significance, and we have every indication that our Northern neighbor is pushing forward her preparations for a contest in which we shall have to fight for our existence."

In conclusion Lord Kitchener instances Japan as having shown what was possible by thoroughly modern methods in army administration, while the disastrous consequences to Russia give the other side of the picture. He urges that there is danger in hesitating to break the chains of custom and intolerance of admitted defects.

The Viceroy and the Council strongly criticized Lord Kitchener's views, but in the end the home government, overriding the views of the Indian government, decided in favor of peace requirements instead of the possibility of a great war.

RACE TRACK ACTION NOW UP TO FOLK

"I am satisfied the county officials are doing what is right in this matter," John Kennish, Assistant Attorney General.

"To-morrow or next day I shall file an information against Erlich, POLICY HOLDERS ENTITLED TO $90,000,000 SURPLUS.

New York, June 22.—Affidavits that are on file in the office of the Tax Commissioners in this city, by means of which the Equitable Life Society has year after year received payment of tax on the society's surplus of $90,000,000, would seem to dispel the assertion of the society's stockholders that they are entitled to the $80,000,000.

Taking advantage of a section of the insurance law, the Equitable has each year sworn off any tax assessment on its surplus, which is interpreted as being the accumulation under the law as being held for the exclusive benefit of the insured.

These affidavits have been signed annually by Thomas D. Jordan,

Controller of the Equitable Society.

In the other party for four at Delmar Garden last night practically settled the question of further arrests at Delmar race track for alleged violations of the present State laws with respect to gambling at race tracks as far as the St. Louis County officials and the Assistant Attorney General of the State are concerned.

In the other party were Assistant Attorney General John Kennish, State Senator A. E. L. Gardner, Prosecuting Attorney Rollin Johnson and Sheriff George Herpel, the three latter from St. Louis County.

The leading topic of conversation was the report of Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks, included in Mr. Hendricks' report is the salary list for the year 1904. On this list appears the name of H. W. Lemert, chief medical director and the salary of the office is set down as $20,000 a year.

The discovery was made through a study of the report of Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks, included in Mr. Hendricks' report is the salary list for the year 1904. On this list appears the name of H. W. Lemert, chief medical director and the salary of the office is set down as $20,000 a year.

Another name in the list, as printed in Mr. Hendricks' report, is that of Edward Curtis, whose office as medical director had been given a yearly salary of $10,000. While the records of the society show that Mr. Curtis has not been an employee of the company for eighteen months, he is still in receipt of $10,000 a year, according to Mr. Hendricks' report.

The fourth name is that of J. H. Loring, registrar of the society. Mr. Loring advised the fact that Mr. Lemert had been dead for thirteen months.

Further down the list appears the name of George H. Squier, who is now a Greenbacker, and who, until last November, was financial manager of the society, at a salary of $10,000 a year. Notwithstanding Mr. Squier's retirement as financial manager, and that his successor, Mr. Winters, has been appointed, the salary list for 1904 still receives the salary of $20,000.

Still another name in the list, as printed in Mr. Hendricks' report, is that of Edward Curtis, whose office as medical director had been given a yearly salary of $10,000. While the records of the society show that Mr. Curtis has not been an employee of the company for eighteen months, he is still in receipt of $10,000 a year, according to Mr. Hendricks' report.

These were the names in the list, as printed in Mr. Hendricks' report, which were the only ones that could be found in the society's records.

When Mayor Wells and Doctor Simon sat down at the meeting at the same table, the Mayor's secretary, James G. McCauley, and City Counselor Bates were still going over the results of the investigation of the Health Department and formulating charges. Doctor Simon in turn listened to the committee's approval of appointments without bringing up the Newmark matter. There were slight incidents, however, which showed the strained relations.

That the reorganization of the Health Department is not distant is shown by the state of new officials which is said to have been drawn up. The table among some of the superintendents of city institutions to the effect that Doctor C. A. Snodgrass, City Haberdasher, is said to be slated for the commissionership.

Doctor Walter C. B. Kirchner, assistant superintendent at the city hospital, detailed as superintendent of the Emergency Hospital, is by the same authority being named as successor to Doctor Snodgrass as City Haberdasher, and Doctor J. M. Pfeiferberger, former assistant superintendent of the Female Hospital, is selected for the place of Doctor Kirchner.

The rumors have not been well enough defined to name the one who will succeed Charles W. Francis, who as chief sanitarian, acts as Assistant Health Commissioner. That he will be removed, however, in case charges are placed against Doctor Simon is now almost certain.

The delay in bringing the affair to a head is said to be caused by the voluminous evidence and papers which have to be reduced to specific charges. City Counselor Bates is in the matter and to him it is being left the work of compiling the charges and placing them in legal form. Counselor Bates and Doctor Simon have always been the best of friends.

The department will probably banish the gloves, but the men will have to buy their own collars and ties. Each carries a newwood baton with blue cord and tan.

Chief Kiley and all of the squad at the Broadway division will have to wear a standing collar, a black bow tie and white gloves while on duty.

Chief of Police Kiley said last evening that he will probably receive the order to day. The order for white gloves was issued several years ago, but recently some members have been negligent and have failed to wear the gloves.

The "equal" men are selected for their size, intelligence, courtesy and knowledge of the city. None is less than 6 feet in height. They are known as the "Trotty cops," because of the attention they must give to women who visit the downtown district on shopping tours.

Chief Kiley believes, however, that the men would look better if each would wear a standing collar, a black bow tie and white gloves.

Another innovation Chief Kiley intends to introduce is to have each of the Captain's drill companies of the men twice a week at the Armory with riot guns. Chief Kiley says an emergency may arise some time where it will be necessary for the Captain, as well as the men, to know the use of military tactics.

World's Fair Inspector Falls Into a Cellar.

While walking on Maple avenue near the Suburban tracks last night William Hatch of No. 405 Maple avenue, chief sanitary inspector at the World's Fair grounds, stepped on a small stone which precipitated him into a cellar of a new building.

His statements were confusing. He was taken to jail at Clayton last night pending an investigation, which will be made this morning.

The body was not recovered.
